INTRODUCTION.

THE particulars of the life of John Norden, as far as we are acquainted with them, are few, and even those, as stated by his biographers, not all certain. Anthony à Wood assures us he was educated at Oxford, and takes him for the same person who was author of no fewer than fifteen devotional pieces, some of which went through many, and one, "The Pensive Man's Practice," 12^o, 1591, through forty editions. Granger thought these books in divinity belonged to another person, possibly his father. The dates, however, as enumerated by Wood, exactly correspond with the period over which the topographical productions extend; and we have no actual knowledge of any other writer of both his names.

Wood describes Norden as born of a genteel family, but in what county, unless in Wilts, he could not tell: ^a Gough says about 1548.^b He was admitted a commoner of Hart Hall, Oxford, in

As a topographer, we are more certain of Norden's productions. Those published are,

1. Speculum Britanniae, the First Parte. An historicall and chorographicall description of Middlesex. 4^{to} Lond. 1593. The dedication to Queen Elizabeth, followed by an Address to Lord Burghley.

The Harleian volume 570 contains a manuscript account of Middlesex in Norden's handwriting, which, from the erasures and alterations, seems to have been his first draft, to which a Description of Surrey, as the title informs us, was to have been added. The Preface is dated November, then altered to December, and then to January 1592. It differs from the published copy in arrangement, is more dilated in the prefatory matter, and has places and passages which seem to have been struck out. In two or three instances it has trifling corrections in the handwriting of Lord Burghley.

Norden mentions good store of swans upon the river Lea in this manuscript; and enlarges more than in the printed work upon the preference at that time given to wheat grown about Heston; the several prebends of St. Paul's in Middlesex, are also enumerated. Then follows a section, omitted in the print, on “The meanes most usuall how the people of Myddlesex doe live.

“Not medlinge with the higher sorte, I observe this in the meaner, and firste of suche as enhabyte nere the Thamise, they live eyther by the bardge, by the wherrye, or ferrye, by the sculler or by fishinge, all which live well and plentifullye, and in decent and honest sort releve their famelyes.

“Such as live in the inn countrye, as in the body or hart of the Shire, as also in the borders of the same, for the most part are men of husbandrye, and they wholly dedicate themselves to the manuringe of their lande. And theis comonlye are so furnished with kyne that the wife or twice or thrice a weeke conveyeth to London mylke, butter, cheese, apples, peares, frumentye, hens, chyckens, egges, baken, and a thousand other country drugges, which good huswifes can frame and find to gett a penny. And this yeldeth them a lardge comfort and releefe. Besyds the husbände castinge the quantetie of his corne, and proporcioning the same with the expense of his howse, of the overplus he maketh monie to mayntayn his family and to paye his rent.

“ Another sort of husbandmen or yomen rather ther are, and that not a few in this Shire, who wade in the weedes of gentlemen ; theis only oversee their husbandrye, and give direction unto their servauntes, seldome, or not at all settinge their hand unto the plowgh, who haveinge great feedinges for cattle, and good breede for younge, often use Smythfelde and other lyke places with fatt cattle, wher also they store themselves with leane. And thus they often exchaunge, not without great gayne, wherby and by their daylye increase at home they comonly be come very riche.

“ Ther are also that live by carriage for other men, and to that ende they keepe cartes and carriages, carry meale, malte, and manie other thinges to London, and so furnish themselves in their returne with sundry mens carriages of the cuntrye, wherby they live verye gaynfully.

“ Ther be also, and that especially about Enfeylde, that have the names of Meale men and Malte men ; the meale men for the moste parte buying their wheate at the best hande, and so convert it into meale, and carrye it to the market, and bringe it home in monie. Theis men for the moste are wealthye by their travelye. The Malt men for the most parte carrye for other men by the quarter, and yet proffitt greatly, but especiallye before the barges dyd passe the river Lea.”

Among passages not found in the work as published may be noted—

Hendon. “ It was som time a mannor of Kinge E. VI. by whome it was bestowed upon Sir Edwarde Herbert, knight, as a favour at the time of his baptisme, whereof Kinge Edwarde was a witnes. And so it remayneth the inheritance of S^r Edwarde Herbert."

London is omitted in the manuscript. "Wherof I omitt to speake," Norden says, "in this place, for that I purpose to make a perticuler breife declaracōn therof, together with the mapp of the Cytie, might it please God to be pacient with the seyd Cytie, and to put away his anger, that the sicknes may cease."

Neesdon. "Neesdon or Neusdon, e. 14, a howse sometime the Elringtons in the parish of Wilsdon, wher now dwellyth one Barnes esquire. The howse is a proper howse buylt by the Elringtons, moated about, standinge somthinge lowe. I take it it hath the title of Neusdune of the plentie of wood which sometime grew about the same."

Of Osterley, he says, "The place wher the howse standeth was a ferme howse purchazed by the seyd Sir Thomas Gresham, graced now with a howse beseming a prince."

Under Pancras, "And although this place be as it were forsaken of all, and true men seldome frequent the same but upon devyne occasions, yet is it visyted and usually haunted of roages, vagabondes, harlettes, and theeves, who assemble not ther to pray, but to wayte for praye, and manie fall into their handes clothed, that are glad when they are escaped naked. Walke not ther too late."

"Thistleworth or Istleworth, h. 12, a place scituate upon the Thamise. Not farr from whence betwene it and Worton is a copper and brasse myll, wher it is wrowght out of the oar, melted, and forged. The oar, or earth wherof it is contrived, is browght out of Somersetshire from Mendipp, the most from a place called Worley Hill. The carriage is by wayne, which can not but be very chardgeable. The workemen make plates both of copper and brasse of all scyces little and great, thick and thyn, for all purposes. They make also kytles. Their furnace and forge are blown with great bellows, rayed with the force of the water and suppressed agayne with a great poyes and weyght. And the hammers wherwith they worke their plates are very great and weightie, some of them of wrowght and beaten iron, some of cast iron, of 200, 300, some 400 weight, which hammers so massye are lifted up by an artificiall engine, by the force of the water, in that altogeather semblable to the Iron myll hammers. They have snippers wherwith they snyppe and pare their plates, which snippers being also of a huge greatnes, farr beyond the powr of man to use, are so artificially placed, and such ingenious devises therunto added, that by the mo^ocon of the water also the snippers open and shut and performe that with great facilitye, which ells were very harde to be done."

2. Speculi Britanniae Pars. The Description of Hartfordshire. 1598, 4to.

The date of 1598 placed, not at the end, but at the beginning in the upper part of the title.^a Herbert, in his edition of Ames, vol. iii. p. 1723, guesses at 1596 as the probable date of this work. Many copies of the Middlesex and Hertfordshire were bound together at an early period; both were reprinted in 4to. in 1637; and again in 1723, with the addition of "A Preparative to this Work, intended a Reconciliation of sundrie Propositions by divers Persons tendred, concerning the same by the said author."

3. The Surveyors Dialogue, divided into five bookes. 4°. 1607. The

^a The original MS. of Norden's Hertfordshire, in his own handwriting, is preserved in the archiepiscopal library at Lambeth (Cat. of MSS. No. 521.) It differs in nothing from the printed copy, except in a dedication, not in Latin to Lord Seymour, but in English to Lord Burghley, whose arms ornament a beautifully drawn map of the county, on vellum, in the body of the work. Both MS. and map are dated in 1597. Lord Burghley died in 1598, before the publication of the volume.

Dedication "to Robert Lord Cecill, Baron of Esingdon, Vicecount Crambourne, Earl of Sarum." It was reprinted, "and a sixt booke newly added," 4^o Lond. 1610; and again, in 1618, with a dedication to Sir Richard Smith, Surveyor-general of the lands of Prince Charles.

4. England. An Intended Guyde for English Travailleurs, shewing in generall how far one Citie, and many Shire-Townes in England, are distant from other. Together with the Shires in perticular; and the Cheife Townes in euery of them. With a generall table of the most of the principall Townes in Wales." 4to. Lond. 1625.

The title is followed by a prefatory Address "to all kinde gentlemen and others, who have occasion to make use of these Tables or any of them."

"I have endeavoured, though with some tedious consultation with mine owne weake apprehension, to conceive some rule of ease (being my selfe a travailer) to finde, as neere as possible I could, the certaine distances of townes; which, if they could be certainly collected, without dimensuration (a worke through the kingdome more then tedious) they might by this rule be reduced to certainty without error. But for want of perticall demensuration, I have beene enforced to borrow the helpe as well of mine owne maps which I have made by travaile of divers Shires, now totally finished by the laborious travailes of Mr. Speede, whose Maps, together with Mr. Saxton's and mine owne, have beene the principall direction in this tedious worke.

“Your well wishing friend,

“JOHN NORDEN.”

The Tables are the triangular ones which continued to be used as late as the publication of “Magna Britannia.” They are in counties; and, at the bottom of each, a tablet explanatory of the method of referring to them, ending with “Beare with defectes, the use is necessarie. Invented by John Norden.”

Gough (Brit. Top. i. p. 100) says, “Another edition of this work, without date, was sold by Norden's publisher, John Garrett, at the south entrance of the Royal Exchange.”

5. Speculi Britanniae Pars altera: or a Delineation of Northamptonshire; being a brief historicall and chorographicall Description of that county. Wherein are also alphabetically set down the names of Cyties, Townes, Parishes, Hamlets, Howses of note, and other remarkables, by the travayle of John Norden, in the year MDCX. 8vo. London, 1720.^a

^a A folio fragment of a History of Northamptonshire in the Library of the British Museum, entered in the Catalogue as Norden's, has a manuscript title-page in the same words as this edition of 1720, with the addition of “since improved by John Bridges, Esq. of Barton, near Kettering, in this county.” The leaves begin p. 27—160, in the same type as the two volumes of Bridges's Northamptonshire, fol.

This volume is without any map. In the Dedication to the right worshipful Sir William Hatton, knight, Norden says he had purposed to present this his little travaile of Northamptonshire to the late Lord Chancellor of England, adding, "I tooke occasion in my travayle in those parts to performe it after this poore sorte, beinge otherwise employed in surveyes theare."

6. Speculi Britannie Pars. A Topographicall and Historical Description of Cornwall. 4to. Lond. 1728. Dedicated by Norden to King James I., though, prefixed to it, is a later Dedication to Edward Earl of Oxford, signed Chr. Bateman. It is accompanied by maps of the Hundreds, and several small Views. Four copies of this work were printed upon vellum. One, which was the Earl of Oxford's copy, is now in the British Museum, in the royal Library; a second, which was Dr. Rawlinson's, is preserved in the Bodleian. The other two, at the time of publication, were in the possession of Mr. Richardson, an apothecary in Aldersgate street, and of the Rev. John Blackbourne.

Norden's Manuscript, the presentation copy to King James, is still preserved in the Harleian Collection, No. 6252, accompanied by his original drawings, but not with his maps: the engraved maps of the printed copy being inserted instead.^a

Oxf. 1791. They are probably the cancelled sheets which had been committed to press by the Rev. Peter Whalley, who left the work for others to publish. They are not Norden's.

The Letter "towching your Mats Mineralls in Cornwall," which fronts the title page of the MS. is printed by Bateman at the conclusion.

Gough says, that Norden wrote an Account of the Estates of the Duchy of Cornwall, the right by which the Duke holds his estates, and many of the customs of the manors, which was once repositied in the Duchy Office.

Other Surveys of English Counties prepared by Norden, but never published, were those of ESSEX (which forms the subject of the present volume); KENT, which Gough (Brit. Top. i. 441) assures us still exists in manuscript; and SURREY. "A Survey of this County," says Rawlinson (Engl. Topogr. p. 228) "was drawn up by John Norden, which fell into the hands of a curious Hollander, who gave generously for it, soon after the Restoration, when it was offered to sale, as the notes of an eminent antiquary tell me. The map for this work was drawn by Mr. Norden, engraved by Charles Whitwell, at the expense of Mr. Robert Nicolson, Gent. and is much larger, more exact, and curious than any of his former maps. In it are the arms of Sir William Waade,

^a Richard Carew of Antony, writing to Camden, expresses his wish to add Norden's Map of Cornwall, then recently made, to his Survey. Camd. Epist. p. 72.

Kt., Mr. Nicolson, and those of Isabella, Countess Dowager of Rutland, who died in 1605." Dr. Rawlinson showed this map to the Society of Antiquaries, as appears by their Minutes, in 1746.

The maps designed by Norden, of Hampshire, Hertfordshire, Kent, Middlesex, Surrey, and Sussex, appeared upon an enlarged scale, with his name, in the 6th edition of Camden's Britannia, fol. Lond. 1607; the first edition of the Britannia which had maps. The same counties, with the exception of Kent, but with Cornwall added, appeared upon a still larger scale, augmented by Speed, in his "Theatre of the Empire of Great Britaine," fol. Lond. 1611.

In a Portfolio of Topography in the British Museum is a Map of "Hampshire," in folio, of a smaller size than either of those in Camden or Speed, at the bottom of which are the words "Joñes Norden descripsit," published by Overton; Peter Stent's name, as the previous publisher, having been erased. Hearne, in a Letter, dated Sept. 26, 1727, states that in his time this map was rarely to be seen.^a Beside a map of the county, Norden's Middlesex contains separate plans of London and Westminster.

That of London has the arms of the twelve Companies at the sides. Gough (Brit. Top. i. 747,) says, "It reaches from St.

^a See Brydges's Restituta, vol. i. p. 550.

Catherine's E. to Leicester House W. which was without Temple-bar, with a description of all the outlets or ways into the fields; and at that time, Shrewsbury House, next on this side to the Old Swan, was in being. This was first engraved 1593, but has since fallen into the hands of Peter Stent,^a who added the names of churches, streets, lanes, &c. with letters and figures of reference, which are inserted in the last edition of the book, 1723, and were copied into the map of Middlesex, 1611, by Speed."

Gough adds, "There is another copy of Norden's map of London by Pieter Vanden Keere, engraver, 1623, wherein Norden's name is retained, and the title is 'A Guide for Countrymen in the famous cittey of London, by the helpe of which plot they shall be able to know how farr it is to any street, as allso to go unto the same without forder trouble. A. 1613.'^b

"Norden published also a view of London in eight sheets, having at bottom a representation of the Lord Mayor's Show, all on horseback, and the aldermen in round caps. Bagford says this view is singular, and was taken from the pitch of the hill towards Dulwich College, going to Camberwell from London, about 1604 or 1606, and that he had not met with any other of the kind : he adds, that he saw it on the staircase at Dulwich College, and that Secretary Pepys went afterwards to see it, and would have purchased it : but that since it is quite decayed and destroyed by the damp of the wall. It was given to the College with the Library by William Cartwright, an eminent comedian and bookseller, a friend of the founder's."^a Norden's Maps of his own publication are the first in which the roads were inserted. In his Middlesex he marks eleven different roads from London. His maps, as published by Camden and Speed, have no roads.

^a "Later printers added the E. and W. views pasted at the sides, and called it The Countrymen's Travelling Guide through the City of London; with figures engraved, 1. 2. A. B. but seldom affixed dates. Bagford, p. lxxxii."

Among the Surveys made by Norden, not so much of a topographical as a professional kind, which remain in manuscript, one of the most splendid is the Harleian volume 3749, on vellum, in large folio.

"A Description of the Honor of Windesore, namelie of the Castle, Foreste, Walkes, Parkes, Rayles, Lodges, Townes, Parishes, Hamletts, Howses of note, Woodes, Riuers, Rills, Brookes, Bridges, Hills, Highwaies, and all other thinges memorable, within or belonging unto the saide Honor and the Liberties of the same, liynge within and extending into the Counties of Barkſ, Surrey, and Buckingham, taken and performed by the perambulation, view, and delineation of John Norden. In Anno 1607."

British Museum, No. 6027, is a folio volume on paper, neatly written, entitled, "An Abstract of diuers Manors, Landes, and Tenements latelie graunted unto Prince Charles, by our Sovereigne Lord James his most louing father. Surueyde by uertue of a deputation of ye honorable Sr James Fullerton, knighte, Surueyor generall of the landes and land reuenews of the sayd moste worthy Prince Charles, made and performed by John Norden the elder and John Norden the younger, as deputies to the sayd Sir James, in the moneths of Jun: July, August, and parte of September, 1617."

The dedication is "to Sir Henrie Hubberde, Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, chancellor to Prince Charles," and "to the reste of the Prince's Honorable Commissioners."

The landes surveyed are

^a Gough, Brit. Topogr. i. 175, says, "Among Bishop More's MSS. (Cat. MSS. Angliæ, tom. ii. 365.) is a survey of the manor of Blewberrie, being parcel of the Prince of Wales's estate, taken July 1617, by John Norden, sen. and jun. deputed by Sir James Fullerton, surveyor-general of the said estate." In a subsequent page (Brit. Top. ii. 183) he adds, "Norden's Survey of the manors of Blewberry and Shipton, which Bishop Nicolson calls A Collection for the History of Berks, is remarkably fair, and particular in describing the several parcels of lands lying in each manor, and their value. (Mr. Spicer's Letters to Mr. Mores.)"

At fol. 81. is a bird's-eye view of the Castle and part of the City of Exeter. This is the most important of the Tables or Plates which adorn the manuscript.

Another volume in the Museum, in large folio, Harl. MS. 3696, contains “Perambulatio et Superuisus terrarum et tenementorum Domini de Bromfeylde et Yale in Comitatu Denbigh, parcellæ possessionum excellentissimi Charoli Principis Walliæ, Ducis Cornubiæ et Eborum, et Comitis Cestriæ, quondam in possessione Wiffi Stanley militis, alta proditione attincti, capta et facta mensibus Aprilis, Maij, et Junij, anno dñi 1620, per Johem Norden, virtute Commissionis ejusdem Principis, sub propria manu et sigillo suo priuato, eidem Johi et Johi suo filio directæ.”

It is ornamented with a drawn view and plan of Holt Castle. This manuscript came into Lord Oxford's possession by present from a Mr. Bower in Feb. 173⁵/₆.

The Sloane MS. also, No. 3241, contains

“The Presentment and Verdicte of the Jurie for the manor of Yale and Raglar, beinge pcell of the Lo^rppes of Bromfielde and Yale, made before John Norden the elder esquire, and John Norden the younger, gent. by vertue of a Commission of Survey to them directed, from the Prince his Highnes, under his privie seale, the daie of June, Año R. The Harleian Manuscript 6288 preserves

“The Suruey of the Manor of Sherife Hutton and the members therof in the county of York, parcell of the possessions of Charles Prince of Wales, Duke of Cornewall and of York, and Earle of Chester, taken in Julie, August, &c. by John Norden the elder, and John Norden the younger, by vertue of his Mat^s Comission out of the Eschequer, dated the 16 day of June in the two and twentieth yeare of King James of England, France, and Ireland, and of Scotlande the lvij, as well by the perambulation and view of the land and evidences of the ténantes, as by the oathes of those as towching Sherifehutton manor itselfe that are hereafter named.”

The editor of this volume is indebted to T. R. Fearnside, esq. for the following

The Honor of Eye, and the other Surveys following, appear to be in the hand-writing of Mr. Norden.

The late Richard Heber, esq. possessed the presentation copy of Norden's Hertfordshire to Queen Elizabeth (See the Catalogue of his Library, Part viii. No. 1086). The title page and maps were coloured and the arms blazoned. It was prefaced, on a blank leaf, by a neatly written address to the Queen, in which Norden stated that he had spent above one thousand marks and five years' time upon the work, "by which being daungerouslie indepted, much greeved, and my familie distressed, I have no other refuge but to flie unto your Maiestie's never fayling bountie for relief." ^a

Whether any thing in the shape of bounty was bestowed we have no means of knowing, but Norden still continued in straitened circumstances. As soon as King James came to the throne, however, Norden hastened to make him a complimentary address upon his Majesty's accession, in which, in the first part, he harangued against the Papists, adding a few sentences upon the subject of his surveys of the several Counties. The original is preserved among the old royal manuscripts in the British Museum, (18 A. xxiii.) and what relates to his Surveys is here transcribed.

“I have presumed (yet in dutie), right gracious sovereign, to adventure this my simple intimation, which may it please your Majesty to pardon, I shall think me happie. I have not been so conversant in divine letters as might sufficiently answer the perfection required in a matter of such moment. But have been employed by authority in the re-description of the shires of England, wherein to my great impoverishment I have travelled in hope of my promised allowance towards my charge and travail from her late Majestie, which her Highness was very inclinable to have performed, and referred the consideration thereof to such as (I having no means to make my friends) have been slack in effecting anything for my relief.

“And now (my gracious liege Lord) I humbly tender my poor service therein unto your Majestie’s gracious consideration, willing to go forward in the work begun, might I be in some measure inabled. Wherein I nothing doubt, but to do your Highness acceptable service, not only in describing the countries topographically, with the delineation of all the cities and principal townes, your Majestie’s houses, castles and forts, but any other matter according to your Majestie's further instructions touching the state of the Countries.

"This imployment hath caused me to discontinue all other means of my relief, being formerly employed in survey of some of her late Majestie's lands, belonging to the Dukedome of Lancaster, and of other landes. And if it stand not with your gracious pleasure to employ my poor service in the former Descriptions, that your Highness would be pleased to employ the same in the survey of some of your Majestie's land, the service whereof in former times hath been committed (in favour not by desert) unto such (for the most part) as were very unfit to execute the same, to the great prejudice of her late Majestie's revenues. But in all humility laying my whole endeavors before your gracious consideration, I reeste most happy in your Majestie's most favourable disposition.

Et pauperi spes est.

Your Ma^{ts} poore dutiful subject,

Jo. NORDEN."

Soon after this Norden was probably made surveyor of the King's lands; he appears from the following instrument relating to the repairs of Hurst Castle, at least to have held the office of "Surveyor of his Majestie's Woods" in 1609. The original is preserved among Sir William Musgrave's Collections, MS. Addit. Brit. Mus. 5752, fol. 312. Granger, in his Biographical History of England, says he received a stipend of fifty pounds a year for this office.

“After or hartie comendacons : whereas upon a comission dyrected out of the Court of Exchequer, to certayne comissioners to enquire of the decaies of Hurst Castle, and to certifie what would be no more than necessary for the repacons thereof, wee have received a certificate accordingly, wth an estimate of ye charges, whereof having advisedly considered, althoughe wee doe beleewe that the decaies menconed in the said certificat have neede to be repaired, consideringe by forbearance too longe they may growe somewhat more chargeable ; yet consideringe that they be not all of like consequence, and that tymber sufficient cannot be provyded at this tyme in any convenient place thereabouts to performe the whole, as the case now stands, wee have rather chosen for the present to employe some woorkmen about the repacons of that part w^{ch} wee understand is most needfull to be repayed ; and that is the beach or pointe leadinge to the Castle, w^{ch} as it seemes by the certificat of two of the Commissioners will require some three hundred tonnes of tymber, besides the charges in money for all manner of carriage by land or water, wth dringene and settinge the piles, and the rest of the workmanshipp, amounting in the whole to the some of a hundred fower score and five pounds as it is certiefed, wee have therefore thought good to require yow, Mr. Norden, the particular surveyor of his Mate woods, together wth the woodward of the County, and the surveyor of his Mate worke at Portsmouth, respectively each of yow, according to his particular office and charge, to have a due care of the performance of this worke, and that yow doe presently sett the same in hand, wth as much ease of his Ma^{ts} charge every way, as reasonably yow may, soe as the worke be sufficiently and substantially done; and for as much as in respect of his Mat^e comynge to the New Forrest this next so^mer, there can be noe order given for fallinge of any wood in that place, but that it must be provyded in some other part more remote, wee would have yow firste consider whether this proportion, or so much lesse as yow shall find to be requisite, may not be had upon some of his Mat^e manno^{rs} or lands in that county, where the Commissioners for sale are nowe dyrected to cutt; and be transported thether wth a reasonable charge; w^{ch} if in yo^r judgmt^e it may, wee would have yow then soe to proceede; but yf yo^w finde that the charges of carriage, in respect of the distance, will be so greate, as it is not fitt to hold that course, wee doe then advise, that yow enquire where soe much tymber may be had at reasonable prices nere thereabout^e of such psons as will sell, and that yow buy it to his Mat^e best advantage; for w^{ch}, as for all other charges requisite concerninge the execution of this service, soe it exceede not the some of a hundred foure score and five pounde, wee doe require yo^w his Mat^e Receayor of the countie to deliver such moneyes as the said Commissioners above named, or any two of them shall demanda at yo^r hands for the use aforesaid; for w^{ch} yow, the said Commissioners, are to be accomptable, as the manner is in the like cases. Moreover, for the better pformance of this service, because we are assured that S^r Thomas Gorges, who hath the comand of that place, will not be unwillinge to be present there sometymes, to veiwe and give dyrections to the workemen that it may be done effectually and wth expedi^on, wee doe require yo^w to give him notice hereof, and to take him to yo^w as an assistant, and wth all, when the worke is fynished, bringe from him a certificat thereof, under his hand, for o^r better satisfac^on, w^{ch} beinge all wee thincke necessarie to write unto yo^w concerninge this particuler, we comitt yo^w to God. From the Court at Whitehall this viijth of Aprill 1609.

Yo^r very lovinge freinds,

R. SALISBURY.

JUL. CÆSAR."

In the Lansdowne Manuscript 165, fol. 233, we have the following Observations which Norden presented to Lord Salisbury in 1613, upon the abuses practised by the tenants of the King's manors. They are indorsed, “ John Norden, one of the generall Surveyors of the King's Landes and Woods.”

“ Observations fitt for honorable consideration :

First, by the grauntinge of leases of manors, upon the relation of such as hope a gratuitie of the patentees, without due and true information of the state, condition, value, and other needfull circumstances, honorable officers have bene abused, and her late Mat^{yes} and the Kinges revenewes muche diminished. If reasons be demaunded,

First, it is manifeste that Patentees have made 20 times their fines instantlie upon their grauntes, which myghte have bene aswell raysed to the use of ther Mat^e.

Secondlie, fermers of manors have litle care to preserve his Mat^e Royaltie, rentes, services, tenures, woodes, howses, custums, and other accidentall profites, which in manie places have bene, and daylie are, discontinued, altred, and forgotten.

In manie of his Mat^e manors, freeholders, their rentes, services, tenures, and landes, not onlie for want of exacte surveyes, due view, and true recordinge of their deedes, become straunge and unknown, other men are intituled to his Mat^e teñtes, their landes, services, and tenures, rentes detayned, reliefes loste, and when excheates happen, the lande that shoulde redounde to his Mat^y, can not be founde; for manie teñtes paye rentes for lande, but, for want of due surveyes, the landes are conceyled, and neyther can the jurie, nether will the teñtes discover wher the land lyeth, greatly to his Mat^e prejudice.

For reformation wherof, everye freeholder is to be exacted, not onlie to shewe his deedes, set downe his rent, acknowledge his tenure and service, but also to sett out his lande; theis thinges are now in manie psons, places, and thinges, drowned in darke discountynuance, which mighte be revived, recovered, and founde to his Mat^e greate advantage ; for manie pretendinge to be freeholders, woulde appeare usurpers, intruders, or teñints att will.

Some have bene questioned upon theis poyntes, in his Mat^e behaulfe ; but the prosecution is so chargeable, the successe for some respectes so doubtfull, and adversaries so burdensome, that for want of due tryall, men, especially the mightie, seeme to wronge the Kinge in this kinde the more boldelie, to the greate extenuation of his Mat^e renews.

The demisinge of the lopps and tops of trees in forestes, chases, and other mayne woodes in manors, hath bene the confusion of his Mat^e moste beautifull woodes in the Kingdom ; and it were verie expedient never to graunt the like, but to resume them that are ; for such hath bene the abuse of suche grauntes, that ther is not lefte in anie woodes thus graunted, a braunch of a tree bigger than a walking staffe.

Manie ferme howses of manors become so ruined, as if they be not more stricktly observed and punished, they will manie of them fall to the ground, and yet doe the patentees and their fermors havock his Mat^e timber and wood.

Thinges graunted by custodie, woodes, howses, or lande, are verie ill used, by reason of the uncertayne determination of such estates ; and manie such grauntes are now helde as freeholde, which were they dulle seene, observed, and found out, they woulde yelde his Mat^y a great renew.

Manie dottarde and decayde trees are wthin divers mannors surveyde, which are contynuallie wrongfullie taken by the teñntes, which woulde be sould to his Mat^e use.

25 Octob. 1613."

The Address "to all courteous Gentlemen," prefixed to the reprint of the Middlesex and Hertfordshire, of 1723, is dated at Norden's "poore house, neere Fulham, 4 November, 1596."

Anthony à Wood says he lived, during the greater part of King James's reign, at Hendon, near Acton, in Middlesex.

From statements by himself, there can be no doubt that Norden lived in narrow circumstances. His industry was evidently great: but payment at that time, especially under the government, was slow and uncertain: * and his published works seem not to have been productive of profit. He died in or about 1626.

* An illustration of this may be quoted in a short note from the Earl of Lenox to Sir Julius Cæsar, then Chancellor of the Exchequer; the original is preserved among the Lansdowne MSS.

"MR. CHANCELLOR,

"This bearer, Humfrey Lloid, hath bin so longe without his money, for the clocke he solde the Kinge, that I do very earnestly praie you (now that the privie seale is graunted for his satisfaction) to give order that he may receave his money. And so commending me unto you, I rest

Y^r most assured freende,

"This 18 of July, 1607.

LENEX."

Norden, in his Address to King James on his accession, mentions his having been engaged, in Queen Elizabeth's time, in surveying some of the lands of the Duchy of Lancaster. LORD HOLLAND, the present Chancellor, kindly gave the Editor permission to search the Archives of the Duchy, but, upon the most accurate inquiry by Mr. Danvers, no remains of Norden's labours could be found.

ESSEX, or ESTSEX, of the Saxons Eaptraex, is parcell of that parte of Brittainye wher Ptolomey placed the Trinoantes or Trinobantes: whose inhabitants also Middlesex and Hertfordshire. This shire lyeth east of all the Trinobantes, and vpon that coaste encountreth the mayne Ocean, an infallable bounde on the east. It hath on the south the famous Thams, as a notorious deuision betwene it and Kent. The Lea, Lyga or Lygean, falleth betwene it and Middlesex. The Storte deuideth it and Hertfordshire, passing by Stortford, wherof it taketh name. On the north it hath the Stowre, which as a tether boundeth it in, from Suffolke. So that by theis riuers it becometh peninsula; only the north-weste parte hath no riuer to deuyde it and Cambridgshire.

This shire is moste fatt, frutefull, and full of profitable thinges, exceding (as farr as I can finde) anie other shire, for the generall comodities, and the plentie. Thowgh Suffolke be more highlie comended of some wherwith I am not yet acquaynted: But this shire seemeth to me to deserue the title of the englishe Goshen, the fattest of the Lande: comparable to Palestina, that flowed with milke and hunnye. But I can not comende the healthfulness of it: And especiallie nere the sea coastes, Rochford, Denge, Tendering hundredes and other lowe places about the creekes, which gaue me a moste cruell quarterne feuer. But the manie and sweete comodities counteruayle the daunger.

It is to be noted how the perticuler comodities are, as it were, quartered out, and possess seuerall places w^{thin} the Shire.

The hundreds of Rocheforde, Denge, Dansye, or Dansing, which lye on the sowth-easte parte of the shire, yelde milke, butter, and cheese in admirable aboundance: and in those partes are the great and huge cheeses made, wondred at for their massiuenes and thicknes. They are made also in Tendring hundred, wher are manie wickes or dayries. But in that hundred are also manie barren groundes.

Ther are in this shire some especiall groundes noted generallie, in regarde of their fertilletie, by this comon Rime or Prouerbe.

Lorde Morleyes	{	Baron parke is frutefull and fatt;
In Layr Marney pk		How feild is better then that;
In Wigboro		Copte hall is beste of them all;
Parcell of Peldo hall		Yet Hubble down: may wayr the crowne.

The second quarter of the shire may be saide to contayne the hundreds of Lexden, Hinckforde, Dunmow, and Froswell, which lye in the northē parte of the Shire. And theis abounde greatelye with hopps, a comoditie of greate and continuall use, but draweth with it an inconuenience: the distruction of younge springes. In theis hundreds also are manie good feedinges, and corne in reasonable measure.

Therdlie, the hundreds of Vttlesforde, Chelmerforde, Claueringe, and those partes are reasonable apt for corne, and especiallie Vttlesforde hundred; the reste are here and there much enterlaced with woodes and rugged groundes. About the town of Walden groweth great store of saffron, whose nature, in yelding her fruite, is uerie straunge, and bindeth the laborer to greate trauaile and dilligence: and yet at length yealdeth no small advantage to recomforte him agayne.

Fowrthlie, aboute the hundredes of Waltham, Onger, Becontre, and muche of the libertie of Hauering, are for the moste parte woodes and wooddie groundes, and foreste, as the most parte of Essex in time paste hath bene. This forest is well replenished with deere red and fallow, whoe seeme noe good neighbors to the foreste inhabitantes : but the kindnes which they receyue of the forest, may worke their patience towards the game. Ther is also nere Hatfeylde broadokes a chace called Hatfeyld chace, a grounde well replenished with fallow deare. This shire seemeth not anie wher altogether destitute of wood, though no wher well stored.

It is full of parkes.

Barstable hundred yeldeth greate store of ottes, so doth Rocheforde and Denge, whence her Matie hath greate store of prouision of auenage.

Ther are noe great flockes of sheepe in this shire. Yet are ther sundrie places, that yealde verie fine woull ; but not in the depe countries : the moste barren and heathye groundes yelde beste woull, and especiallie

Kingeswood heath,	Thurrington,
Lexden heath,	Empsted,
Misley heath,	and
about Ardeley,	Typtree heath.
Alresforde,

Ther are within this shire theis especiall clothing townes :

lande.

There are in and about this shire sundry ilandes. Mersey standing as it were in the sea. Within Blackewater creeke ar Northey and Orsey Ilandes, of noe greate accompte. In Crouche creek, or Cricksye creek, is Wallet, or rather and more trulie Walfleet Ilande, and diuers other small ilandes of no name. There is w^{thin} the Nase nere Waltham a proper ilande, Horsey Ilande, verie good for feede. It is inuironed with creekes, which leade to certayne ladinges, as to Landymer lading and other suche places, wher they take in wood, w^{ch} carrie it to London, or els where, w^{ch} places are called vpon the Thames, westward, haws or woodwharfes.

Nere the Thames mowth, below Beamflete, are certaine ilandes, called Canuey Ilandes, low merishe grounds; and for that the passage ouer the creeks is vnfit for cattle, it is onlie conuerted to the feeding of ewes, which men milke, and therof make cheese (suche as it is), and of the curdes of the whey they make butter once in the yeare, w^{ch} serueth the clothier.

As towching the comodeties of the sea, they are manie; among the reste it yeldeth store of excellent good fishe, and giueth passage for all kind of trafique, to the greate benifite of the country.

The seacoaste is here and ther furnished with harbours for shipping, wherof the principall is Harwiche, which is a towne fitlie scytuate for seafaring men. Small boates come up as farr as Colchester, and up to Maldon.

Some part of the sea shore of Essex yealdeth the beste oysters in England, which are called Walflete oysters: so called of a place in the sea; but in what place of the sea it is, hath ben some disputation. And by the circomstances that I haue observed therof in my trauaile, I take it to be the shore which lieth betwene St. Peter's chappell and Crowche creeke: the bredthe onlie of Denge hundred, through whiche, vpon the verie shore, was erected a wall for the preseruacion of the lande. And therof St. Peter's on the wall. And all the sea shore which beateth on that wall is called the Walfleet. And vpon that shore onlie, and not els wher, but up in Crouche creeke, at the ende of the wall, wher also is an ilande called commonlie and corruptlie Wallet (but I take it more trulie Walflete) Ilande, wher and about which ilande thys kinde of oyster aboundeth. Ther is greate difference betwene theis oysters and others which lie vpon other shores, for this oyster, that in London and ells wher carieth the name of Walflete, is a little full oyster with a verie greene fyynn. And like vnto theis in quantetie and qualitie are none in this lande thowgh farr bigger, and for some mens diettes better.

In this shire are no store of hills, so to be termed in regard of altitude, onlie Layndon hills may haue the name of hills: yet not verie high. Sundrie valleis ther are, w^{ch} of necessitie require hills, but they are but small knottes, as it were, makinge a difference betwene the valley and the higher grounde. The countrie to the eye appeareth verie playne.

Ther are within this shire manie riuers of name, amonge which theis are principall, as Colne that watereth all the Colnes, and so passing to Colnechester, it thence hasteth to the ocean. The Blackwater, rising nere Wimbishe, taking a longe circular course passeth through Cogshull groundes, and falleth into Chelmer at Maldon. The Chelmer riseth not farr from Tynty, from whence, passing by manie places, it saluteth her famous dawghter Chelmerforde, whence she hasteth to Maldō, thence to associate the Blackwater into the sea. The Roding firste appeareth nere Takeley, whence, as she passeth, shee greeteth her nine daughters, all the Rodinges, from whence, after manifolde curuings, it maketh way vnder Wodforde bridge, so to Barking where it enlargeth the Thames. The Lea, Storte, and Stowre are boundes of the shire. Other small riuers ther are, as the Pante and other streames of no greate recconing. Notwithstanding all which riuers and brookes, manie places in Essex are verie ill watred, and haue few or no springes, especiallie in Denge and Rochforde hundreds, and in diuers other places, which haue onlie standing waters for their vse, which are bad in winter, and in sūmer worse.

This shire is well planted with noblem. and gent. as also not a few sufficient and able yeomen.

Hertfordshire, in the time of Edw. III. was annexed vnto this shire, as towching vicountile iurisdiction, and one sherife executed the same as in the 8 yeare of y^e raigne of Edw. III. John de Cogshull was shirife of both counties; but that vnion hath bene long discontinued. The place wher the assices and generall sessiones are comonlie helde is Chelmerforde. The comon gayle is Colchester Castle.

The hundreds, and how they are limited to repaire, for the more ease of the countrie, to certayne places, for the more spedie dispatche of ordinarie causes.

REPORT OF THE COUNCIL.

DATED 1st MAY, 1840.

THE COUNCIL, elected on the 2nd of May, 1839, have great pleasure in reporting to the Society that the number of 1200 Members, to which the Society is limited, was attained on the 6th of February last. There are now sixty-six Candidates for Admission upon vacancies, and the Council see no reason to doubt that the full number of 1200 Members will be maintained.

The Council have secured, during the last year, the services of the following gentlemen as Local Secretaries for the places to which their names are attached :—

Bath. Rev. William L. Nichols, M.A.

Cork. Rev. J. A. Bolster, M.A., M.R.I.A.

Derby. The Rev. William Fletcher, M.A.

Dudley. Thomas W. Fletcher, Esq. F.R.S.F.S.A.

Halifax. Edward Nelson Alexander, Esq. F.S.A.

Sleaford. Rev. A. H. Whitmore, Leasingham.

Stamford. William Hopkinson, Esq.

They have also appointed Dr. Witt Local Secretary for Bedford in the room of W. H. Smyth, Esq. Capt. R.N., removed to Cardiff, where he has warmly exerted himself on behalf of the Society. Monsieur Teulet has also been appointed Local Secretary for Paris in the place of Monsieur Michel, who has retired.

Shortly after their entry upon Office the Council, in accordance with the recommendation of the last Council, submitted to the General Meeting of the 2nd May, 1839, invested the sum of £200, being the amount then in hand for Compositions, in the purchase of £214. 9s. 6d. Three per Cent. Consols, in the names of the Right Hon. Thomas Peregrine Courtenay, Sir Henry Ellis, and John Bruce, Esq., who accepted the Office of Trustees for the Society, and executed a proper Declaration of the Trusts of the Investment. It will be perceived by the Report of the Auditors, that the Dividends upon that Investment have been brought into the general account of the income of the Society, as well as a further sum of interest received upon an Investment of part of the floating balance of the Society's income, in a Deposit Account with the Metropolitan Bank.

The Council recommend, that the sum received for Compositions, since the above mentioned Stock was purchased, should be added to the Society's Investment, as soon after the General Meeting as may be convenient.

The Publications of the Society during the past year have been—

The Political Songs of England, from the Reign of John to that of Edward

The last-mentioned work will be considered a publication of the second year, and the Council have directed that there shall be appended to it a complete List of the Members of the Society, together with the Report of the Auditors. It will also afford an opportunity for circulating this Report amongst the Members.

The Council have ordered the following works to be put to press, and the first and second of them will shortly be ready for publication.

The Egerton Papers ; consisting of Public and Private Documents formerly belonging to Sir Thomas Egerton, Baron Ellesmere, and Viscount Brackley ; and

A Collection of Anglo-Saxon and Old English Monuments, principally intended to illustrate the dialects of the languages. By JOHN M. KEMBLE, Esq.

PROMPTORIUM: An English and Latin Dictionary of Words in use during the 15th Century, compiled chiefly from the Promptorium Parvulorum, with illustrations from other contemporary authorities. By ALBERT WAY, Esq. F.S.A.

A Narrative of the Expedition of Henry V. into France, A.D. 1415, with an account of the Battle of Agincourt. Written by a Priest in attendance upon the English Army. To be edited by WILLIAM J. THOMS, Esq. F.S.A.

The Journal of Sir Richard Torkington's Pilgrimage to the Holy Land, in the year 1517.

The Pilgrimages of William Wey, Canon of Eton, to Jerusalem and to Compostella, in the years 1458 and 1472.

The whole list is not only an exemplification of the class of publications contemplated by the Society, but affords also a proof of the growing interest taken in its proceedings by persons of high rank and eminence, both in the world of Letters and in Society. The example of its President has been followed by His Grace the Duke of Rutland, who has placed various valuable papers at the service of the Society; and by the Most Noble the Marquess of Salisbury, who has permitted the Council to use the MS. of Norden's Description of Essex; and a friendly feeling towards the Society has been evinced by other distinguished persons who possess MS. Collections.

The Council have also to direct the attention of the Members to the assistance towards promoting the objects of the Society, which has been derived from David Laing, Esq., who furnished a transcript of a valuable poem from the Auchinlech Manuscript, inserted in the Collection of Political Songs; from Frederick Ouvry, Esq., who has given the Society the use of a valuable Collection of Despatches of the Earl of Leicester; from the Rev. J. H. Todd, who has very kindly offered his transcript of the singular Miracle Play of Sir Jonathas, mentioned in the Report of the last Council, as a contribution to the Collection about to be edited by J. P. Collier, Esq.; from the Editors of the Society's works; from the Local Secretaries; and from Messrs. Nichols and Son. The last-named Gentlemen have very kindly continued to the Council the use of their house as a place of meeting and an office for the transaction of the business of the Society; and also their assistance in the Collection of the Subscriptions, in the keeping of the Accounts, and in correspondence, advantages which the Society cannot fail to appreciate.

The Collection of Subscriptions has been rendered less difficult by the adoption by many Members of a Form of Cheque* upon their Bankers, provided by the Treasurer. The Council recommend the subject to the attention of the Members generally; much trouble is saved; and the Society is greatly benefited by an early payment of the Subscriptions.

The Council have to regret, that the Society has lost the following Members by death:

WILLIAM GEORGE ADAM, Esq. Accountant-general in Chancery.

HIS GRACE THE DUKE OF BEDFORD, K.G. F.S.A.

GROSVENOR CHARLES BEDFORD, Esq.

With considerable resources, and supported by the zeal, energy, and discrimination of its friends and editors, a course of great usefulness is open to the Society, and the Council confidently hope that the power which the Society possesses may be made available to the production of works of a sound historical character, works useful to all classes of inquirers, and alike honorable to the Society and the Country.
